

Two papers from the HUPO Proteomics Standards Initiative and published in Nature Biotechnology are aimed at making it much easier to share and compare information from large-scale proteomics data. The Minimum Information about a Proteomics Experiment (MIAPE) and the Minimum Information required for reporting a Molecular Interaction Experiment (MIMIx) guidelines propose the range of information to be recorded to document proteomics and molecular interaction data, respectively.